

CURRICULUM VITAE

Gary T. Klugiewicz

September 22, 2007

SUMMARY:

Experience, expertise and communication skills are the criteria by which a defensive tactics instructor should be judged. Gary T. Klugiewicz is recognized as one of the nation's leading control systems analysts specializing in the Use of Force.

Gary Klugiewicz combines a unique blend of physical expertise, teaching know-how and most importantly the communication skills necessary to translate the complex physiological, psychological and ethical concepts into understandable terms.

Gary Klugiewicz has spent over twenty-five years as a line officer, supervisor and finally a control systems designer. Gary Klugiewicz serves as a defensive tactics consultant for numerous police and correctional agencies throughout the United States. He has developed a correctional training program for the State of Wisconsin.

Gary Klugiewicz's ability to create realistic training programs is without equal. His programs are based on the "guided discovery" concept that allows participants to discover the training concepts in order to reinforce learning principles. In addition, his programs stress professional communication skills and incorporate verbalization skills into every aspect of these training programs. Utilizing the most advanced protective equipment, his students are able to "test" the techniques they learn in their actual working environment. Patrol Officers respond to bar fights, domestic disturbances and traffic stops. Correctional officers perform high level simulations in cell blocks. Tactical Officers deal with High Risk Entries. Security Officers respond to realistic emergencies. Mental Health Professionals are trained to interact with their patients utilizing a team approach with a primary outcome of doing what is in the best interest of the patient's stabilization / recovery.

Gary Klugiewicz has channeled all his energies into the development of a control system and use of force model that addresses the special needs of American law enforcement personnel. Coming from a law enforcement background, he is best able to address the complex forces at work within our nation's police, correctional, military, security, and mental health organizations.
